The Magic Land.

BY OWEN MEREDITH.

By woodland belt, by ocean bar,
The full south breeze our forehead
fanned,
And, under many a yellow star,
We dropped into the magic land.

There, every sound and every sight
Means more than sight or sound elsewhere,
Each twilight star a two-fold light,
Each rose a double redness there.

By ocean bar, by woodland belt,
The full south breeze aye we felt,
Till dark in dawn begins to melt,
Through the wild wizard-work o' head.

A murmur from the violet valed
A glory in the goblin dell!
There Beauty all her breasts unveils,
And Muses pour out all her shell.

We watch'd, towards the land of dreams
The fair moon draw the murmuring
A single thread of silver beams
Was made the monster's rippling chain.

We heard far off the syren's song,
We caught the gleam of sea-maid's hair,
The glimmering isles and rock, among,
We waded through sparkling purple air.

Then Morning rose, and smote from far,
Her elfin harp o'er land and sea;
And woodland belt, and ocean bar,
To one sweet note signed "Italy!"

WHAT MAKES A WOMAN.

Not costly dresses nor queenly air;
Not jeweled hand, complexion fair;
Not graceful form nor lofty tread,
Not paint, nor curls, nor splendid head,
Not pearls, nor teeth, nor sparkling eyes,
Nor voice that nightingale, outvies;
Not breath as sweet as eglantine,
Not gaily gleam of silken train;
Not all the stores of fashion's mart,
Nor yet the blandishment of art;
Not one, nor all these combined,
Can make one woman true, refined.

'Tis not the casket that we prize,
But that which in the casket lies,
These outward charms that please the sight,
Are naught unless the heart be right,
She, to fulfill her destined end,
Must with her beauty goodness blend;
Must make it her incessant care
To deck herself with jewels rare;
Of priceless gems must be possessed,
In robes of richest beauty dressed;
Yet these must clothe the inward mind,
In purity the most refined.

She who doth all these goods combine
Can man's rough nature well refine;
Hath all she needs in this frail life
To fit for mother, sister, wife,
He who possesses such a friend,
Should cherish well till death doth end.
Woman, in fine, the mate should be,
To suit with man, the life's rough sea;
And when the stormy crisis is o'er
Attend him to fair Canaan's shore.

General Grant, we are informed by telegraph, walked on the beach at Long Branch a day or two ago. This information would be gratifying at any time, and under all circumstances, but to receive it by telegraph enhances its value very materially. Why was the telegraph so slow in its facilities? Why was the information so meagre? The public mind is anxious to know whether (Grant) was or was not smoking on the memorable occasion when he walked on the beach, whether he hummed the appropriate song of "On the Beach at Long Branch," or that other equally apposite, "Captain Jinks," whether or not he winked at the blondes as they played about in the surf, occasionally showing him their tight-clothes—the public mind is harassed to know all about these and many other important particulars, and the telegraph is morbidly silent. A reformation is demanded in this case.

A YEAR OF PLENTY.—From all parts of the country the cheering intelligence continues to come announcing the abundance of the earth's productions. The wheat crop just harvested is all that could be desired, and the yield is pronounced to be far above the average. In the South the cotton promises to furnish more bales than have been produced since the commencement of the war. In the West, excepting a portion of Illinois, the corn stands firm, and gives assurance of an uncommon harvest. In our own section all kinds of grain have done exceedingly well, and, potatoes, the farmers say, are too plenty to pay. We have plenty, now let us have peace.—[N. Y. Herald.]

A Discovery.

Workmen, in overhauling the old fort at St. Augustine, Florida, discovered several subterranean cells, or prisons, each of which contained a long iron upright box, and a human skeleton in iron. It is supposed these were refractory Spanish soldiers, or perhaps prisoners of war incarcerated in these secret boxes and left there to die hundreds of years ago.

Women charm, as a general thing, in proportion as they are good. A plain face, with a heart behind it, is worth a world of heartless beauty. Men who have tried both, uniformly agree to this.

Never lay a stumbling block in the way of a man who is trying to advance himself in the world, however and upright.

Radway's Ready Relief
IS A CURE FOR EVERY PAIN.
IS A CURE FOR EVERY PAIN.
IS A CURE FOR EVERY PAIN.
IS A CURE FOR EVERY PAIN.
IS A CURE FOR EVERY PAIN.
IS A CURE FOR EVERY PAIN.

It was the first, and is the only PAIN REMEDY, that will instantly stop the most excruciating pains, allay INFLAMMATION, and cure CONGESTIONS, whether of the Lungs, Stomach, Bowels, or other glands and organs, by one application.
IN FROM ONE TO TWENTY MINUTES.
No matter how violent or excruciating the pains, the Red-ridden, Inflamed, Crippled, Rheumatic, Nervous, Neuritic, or prostrated with disease may suffer.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF
will, in from one to twenty minutes, afford ease and comfort, and this medicine, so rapid in stopping pain, can be purchased for 50 cts per bottle at almost every druggist and country merchant's store on this continent, and within one hour's distance of almost every habitation in the United States.
Millions who have used Radway's Ready
Relief for 25 years know that ONE 50 cent bottle, diluted in one gallon of proof spirits, will make a better Liniment, Pain Balm, Killer, Punance, King of Pain, equal in quantity to 144 Bottles of the Sizes of those Lotions that are sold at 25 cents.

And the public should also know that all these lotions are not poor imitations of Radway's Ready Relief. If those who are now suffering Pain—no matter what the cause may be, or by what name it is called—if external, apply Radway's Ready Relief to the part of the body where the pain is present. It is never diluted in water, as a drink; it drinks; whether Cramps, Sprains, Inflammation, Congestion, Asiatic Cholera, Chills and Fever, the most violent, excruciating, and torturing pains, will be stopped in from

ONE TO TWENTY MINUTES.

One fifty cent Bottle of RADWAY'S READY
Relief will do more service, and cure more complaints than are daily occurring in every family than $25 expended in prescriptions for drugs.

and all other Malarious Diseases, Sore Throat, Yellow Fever, and other Fevers (aided sometimes with the Radway's Pills), so quick and without annoyance to the patient, or leaving ill effects after the cure, as Radway's Ready Relief.

Millions of people throughout the world know how quick it will cure all malarious complaints; for in all diseases where Pain, INFLAMMATION, or CONGESTION is present, its effects are instantaneous. But in FEVER and AGUE, Asiatic Cholera, Yellow Fever, as these diseases are exhibited in the tropics.
RADWAY'S READY RELIEF has proved infallible, and will cure these terrible fevers quicker, without entailing the frightful pen-

WHEREAS, by an act of the General Assembly of the State of Alabama, approved the 10th day of October, 1868, it is provided as follows: to-wit: "It shall be the duty of the Probate Judge of each county in this State to designate a newspaper in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character required by law to be made in his county, shall be published; which paper so designated shall be the official organ in and for said county," and in obedience to the requirements of said act, I, as Judge of Probate for Calhoun County, Alabama, do hereby designate the "St. Clair County Eagle," as the official organ in and for said County of Calhoun, in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character, required by law to be made in and for said County of Calhoun should be published, said designation to remain until recalled or changed by me.

And the "Jacksonville Republican" being a County paper, published in the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, and in my opinion, clearly within the provisions of said act, I therefore recall and change my order designating the St. Clair County Eagle, as the official organ for said County of Calhoun, and designate the said Jacksonville Republican as the official organ hereafter, in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character required by Law to be made in and for said County of Calhoun shall be published. This designation to remain so long as in my opinion, the Editor of said Jacksonville Republican conducts said paper so as to be within the provisions of said act.

Unforgotten Words.

A STORY WITH AN EXCELLENT MORAL. "Have you examined that bill, James?" "Yes, sir."

"I find two errors." "Ah, let me see." "The bill handed his employer a long bill that had been placed on his desk for examination."

"There is an error in the calculation of ten dollars, which they have made against themselves, and another of ten dollars in the footing."

"Also against themselves?" "Yes, sir."

"The merchant smiled in a way that struck the lad as peculiar."

"Twenty dollars against themselves," he remarked, in a kind of pleasant surprise.

"Truly checks they must have."

"Shall I correct the figure?" asked the lad.

"No; let them correct their own mistakes. We don't examine bills for other people's benefit," replied the merchant.

"It will be time to rectify those errors when they find them out. All so much gain as it now stands."

"The boy's delicate moral sense was shocked at so unexpected a remark."

He was the son of a poor widow, who had given him to understand that to be just was the duty of man.

Mr. Carman, the merchant in whose employment he had been for only a few months, was an old friend of his father, and a person whom James had looked upon as a kind of model man; and when Mr. Carman proposed to take him into his store, he felt the great good fortune was in his way.

"Let them correct their own mistakes."

"The words made a strong impression on the mind of James Lewis. When first spoken by Mr. Carman, and with the meaning then involved, he felt, as we have said, shocked; but as he turned them over again in his thoughts, and connected their utterance with a person who stood so high in his estimation, he began to think that perhaps the thing was fair enough in business."

Mr. Carman was hardly the man to do wrong. A few days after James had examined the bill, a clerk from the house by which it had been rendered, called for settlement. The clerk, who was present, waited with interest to see whether Mr. Carman would speak of the error. But he made no remark. A check for the amount of the bill as rendered was filed, and a receipt given.

"Is that right?" James asked himself that question. His moral sense said no; but the fact that Mr. Carman had so acted bewildered his mind.

"It may be the way in business,"—so he thought to himself,—but it doesn't look honest. I wouldn't have believed it of him."

Mr. Carman had a kind of way with him which won the boy's heart, and naturally tended to make the boy judge what ever he might do in a most favorable manner.

"I wish he had corrected that error," he said to himself a great many times when thinking in a pleased way of Mr. Carman, and his own good fortune in having been received into his employment.

"It don't look right, but may be it's the way of business."

One day he went to the bank and drew the money on a check. In counting it over, he found that the teller had paid him fifty dollars too much, so he went back to the counter and told him of his mistake. The teller thanked him, and he returned to the store with the consciousness of having done right.

"The teller overpaid me fifty dollars," he said to Mr. Carman, as he handed him the money.

"Indeed?" replied the latter, a light breaking over his countenance, and he hastily counted the bank bills.

"The light faded as the last bill left his finger."

"There's no mistake, James." A tone of disappointment was in his voice.

"O, I gave him back the fifty dollars. Wasn't that right?"

"You simpleton!" exclaimed Mr. Carman, "don't you know that bank mistakes are never corrected? If the teller had paid you fifty dollars short he would not have made it right."

"The warm blood mounted to the cheeks of James under this remark. It is often the case that more shame is felt for a blunder than a crime. In this instance the lad felt a sort of mortification at having done what Mr. Carman was pleased to call a silly thing, and he made up his mind that if they should ever over-pay him a thousand dollars at the bank he should bring the money to his employer, and let him do as he pleased with the money."

"Let people look after their own mistakes," said Mr. Carman.

James Lewis pondered these things in his heart. The impression they made was so strong ever to be forgotten. "It may be right," he said, but he did not feel altogether satisfied.

A month or two after the occurrence of that bank mistake, as James counted over his weekly wages just received from Mr. Carman, he discovered that he was paid half a dollar too much.

The first impulse of his mind was to retain the half dollar to his employer, and it was on his lips to say, "You have given me half a dollar too much, sir," when the unforgotten word, "Let people look after their own mistakes," flashed upon his thoughts, made him hesitate.

To hold a parcel with evil is to be overcome.

"I must think about this," said James, as he put the money into his pocket. "It is true in one case it is true in another."

Mr. Carman don't correct mistakes that people make in his favor, and he can't complain when the rule works against himself."

But the boy was very far from being in a comfortable state. He felt that to keep the half dollar would be a dishonest act. Still, he could not make up his mind to return it at least not then.

James did not return the half dollar, but spent it for his own gratification. After he had done this, it came suddenly into his head that Mr. Carman had only been trying him, and he was filled with anxiety and alarm.

Not long after, Mr. Carman repeated the same mistake. James kept the half dollar with less hesitation.

Let him correct his own mistake," said he, mentally, "that's the doctrine he acts on with other people, and he can't complain if he gets paid in the same coin he puts in circulation. I just wanted half a dollar."

From this time the fine moral sense of James Lewis was blunted. He had taken an evil counselor into his heart, stimulated a spirit of covetousness, latent in almost every mind, which caused him to desire the possession of things beyond his ability to obtain.

James had good business qualifications, and so pleased Mr. Carman by his intelligence, industry and tact with customers, that he advanced him rapidly, and gave him, before he was eighteen years of age, the most reliable position in the store. But James had learned something more from his employer than how to do business well. He had learned to be dishonest.

He had never forgotten the first lesson he had received in this bad way, he had acted only in two instances, but in a hundred, and almost always to the injury of Mr. Carman. He had long since given up waiting for mistakes to be made in his favor, but originated them in the varied and complicated transactions of a large business in which he was trusted implicitly; for it never occurred to Mr. Carman that his failure to be just to the letter might prove a snare to this young man.

James grew shrewd, cunning and skillful, always on the alert; always ready and ready to meet any approaches toward a discovery of his wrong doing by his employers, who held him in the highest regard.

Thus it went on until James was in his twentieth year, when the merchant had his suspicions aroused by a letter that spoke of the young man as not keeping the most respectable company, as spending money too freely for a clerk on a moderate salary.

Before this time James had moved his mother into a pleasant house, for which he had paid a rent of $400; his salary was $800, but he received his mother by telling her he was $1500. Every comfort that she needed was fully supplied, and she was beginning to feel that after a long and painful struggle with the world her happier days had come.

James was at his desk when this letter was received by Mr. Carman. He looked at his employer and saw him change countenance suddenly. He read it over twice, and James saw that the contents produced disturbance. Mr. Carman glanced toward the desk, and their eyes met; it was only for a moment, but the look that James received made his heart stop beating.

There was something about the movements of Mr. Carman for the rest of the day that troubled the young man. It was plain to him that suspicion had been aroused by that letter. O, how bitterly did he regret in dread of discovery and punishment, the sin of which he had been guilty. Exposure would disgrace and ruin him, and how the head of his widowed mother even to the grave.

"You are not well this evening," said Mrs. Lewis, as she looked at her son's changed face across the tea table, and noticed that he did not eat.

"My head aches."

"Perhaps the tea will make you feel better."

"I'll lie down on the sofa in the parlor for a short time."

Mrs. Lewis followed him into the parlor in a little while, and, sitting down on the sofa on which he was lying, placed her hand upon his head. Ah, it would take more than the loving pressure of a mother's hand to ease the pain from which he was suffering. The touch of that pure hand increased the pain to agony.

"Do you feel better?" asked Mrs. Lewis. She had remained some time with her hand on his forehead.

"Not much," he replied, and rising as he spoke, he added "I think a walk will do me good."

"Don't go out, James," said Mrs. Lewis, a troubled feeling coming into her heart.

"I'll only walk a few squares." And James went from the parlor and walked to the street.

"There is something more than headache the matter with him," thought Mrs. Lewis.

For half an hour James walked without any purpose in his mind beyond the escape from the presence of his mother. At last his walk brought him near Mr. Carman's store and at passing he was surprised at seeing a light within.

"What can this mean?" he asked himself a new fear creeping with its shuddering impulse in his heart.

He listened at the doors and windows, but he could hear no sound within.

"There's something wrong," he said, "what can it be? If this is discovered, what will be the end of it? Ruin! ruin! My poor mother."

The wretched young man hastened on, walked the streets for two hours, when he returned home. His mother met him when he entered, and with unbecoming anxiety asked if he was better. He said yes, but in a manner that only increased the trouble she felt, and passed hastily to his own room.

In the morning the strangely altered face of James, as he met his mother at the breakfast table, struck alarm into her heart. He was silent, and evaded all her questions. While they sat at the table the door-bell rung loudly. This sound startled James and he turned his head to listen in a nervous way.

"Who is it asked Mrs. Lewis."

brief incarceration, may it be with the resolution to die rather than commit crime.

And the curtain fell on that sad scene in the boy's life. When it was lifted again, and he came forth from prison a year afterward his mother was dead. From the day her pale face faded from his vision, as he passed from the court room, he never looked upon her face again.

Twenty years afterward a man was reading a newspaper in a far western town. He had a calm serious face and looked like one who had known suffering and trial.

"Brought to justice at last!" he said to himself, "as the blood came into his face, convicted on the charge of open insolvency, and sent to the state prison. So much for the man who gave me the first lesson in evil doing. But thank God the other lessons have been remembered. When you come forth again, said the judge, 'may it be with the resolution to the better than commit a crime' and I have kept this injunction in my heart ever since; and God helping me I will keep it to the end."

Returned.

After an absence of three weeks, we are again at our post, considerably recruited in health and strength, notwithstanding we have, during that time, travelled about 400 miles by railroad, and at least 150 miles on horseback, through highways and by-ways.

Since we left home elections have taken place in Alabama and Tennessee, the gratifying results of which are already known to our readers. We regretted the necessity which compelled us to leave previous to the election here; but we felt assured that all would be well in our own district, and had become so worn down by excessive labors in the printing office, and by attendance on Railroad Conventions, as to render that necessity imperative.

The anticipations of conservative victory in Tennessee, expressed in our letter from that State, have since been more than realized. Senator, the universal suffrage candidate for Governor, has been elected by a majority of 65 or 70,000 over Stokes, radical; and, as stated by the Knoxville Press and Herald, a democratic paper, not less than four-fifths of the members elected to the Legislature are pledged to the calling of a Convention to make the reforms demanded in the State Constitution. For all practical purposes, it amounts to a democratic victory, and a Waterloo defeat of radicalism. The right to vote will never again be taken from those who were lately enfranchised.

In Alabama, "since it is no letter, we are glad it is no worse." In this, the 5th District, Judge Box, the democratic candidate, has been elected by a handsome majority; and in the 6th District, Sherrod, democrat, has been elected by an overwhelming majority; and in the 3rd, Hoffman, radical, has only been elected by the skin of his teeth; besides, in the other districts the democratic gains have been great.

We feel deeply gratified by the triumph thus far of the constitutional democratic principles we have ever advocated, and to which, we may say without egotism or boasting, we have adhered with ceaseless and unvarying devotion for more than thirty-three years. We again enter upon the discharge of our labors and duties with cheerful hope, and renewed energy and zeal; and we congratulate our patrons upon the bright future prospect of peace, prosperity and success. The assured, final and lasting triumph of constitutional democratic principles is but a question of time. Mississippi and Texas will doubtless follow the example of Virginia, Tennessee and Alabama. Patience, fortitude and persistent devotion to correct political principle will yet accomplish all that remains unfinished.

On account of the continued riotous demonstrations in Mobile, the Governor has consented to place that city for the present under military rule.

In our letter from Tennessee, published last week, a material error occurred in the 5th paragraph, which made it appear as though we were speaking ironically of the future prospects of that State. The sentence should have read—"Long afflicted Tennessee may now look forward with bright anticipations to the future, at least with the exception of the dark shadow and heavy incubus of her enormous State debt, for which radicalism is chiefly chargeable, now said to amount to over forty-two millions, of which she cannot now even pay the interest."

Special attention is invited to the new advertisement of Messrs. Wadsworth & Co., dealers in Hardware, &c., Rome, Ga. This excellent house keeps full stocks of all articles in their line, prices uniformly low, and every facility and advantage offered to those who may wish to purchase while there, or to send their order.

SEED WHEAT—Capt. W. R. Hanna, of this county, has a very fine quality of wheat of which he raised a considerable crop the present year. It is a white wheat known as Boughton or Broughton, now almost universally sown in East Tennessee, and said to produce from one third to one half more than other varieties. Specimens may be seen at the stores in this place. Capt. H. will dispose of a portion of his crop to his neighbors for seed.

Persons who may wish to purchase valuable lands, would do well to notice the Chancery sale of valuable land on Coosa river, by James A. Reeves, Register in Chancery. The lands are situated seven miles above Gadsden, and the sale takes place on Monday the 13th day of Sept. next.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NASHVILLE was founded in 1784, by the State of North Carolina and endowed with lands in the neighborhood of Nashville, now within the city, the rise in value of which has placed her among the wealthiest institutions of the nation and secured her permanent prosperity. She was created independent of Church or State, but has in her long and successful career benefited both. Her avowed mission was to elevate the lowly, give strength to the feeble and to polish the strong and vigorous. While her Faculty have had to rely mainly on fees for support, none of them ever turned away from an ambitious young man because he was poor, but on the contrary, always gave him the hand of kindness and encouragement, making the fame of his after years add lustre to her renown.

The graduates of her various departments are familiar with the high positions throughout the Southern country. Her medical department alone has had between four and five thousand young men in her classes, having enjoyed, to an unexampled extent, the confidence of the profession in the former slave holding States. This department is in a better condition to deserve well of the public than ever, having greatly increased the means of illustration and also the facilities for studying clinical medicine and surgery.

A Big Thing

A gigantic swindle, involving no less than 115,000,000 acres of public lands, has just been brought to light. A company of speculators, styling themselves the "Southern Pacific Railroad of California," have, it seems, managed to smuggle into a law of Congress a provision that virtually grants them the domain, and ownership of 115,000,000 acres of the public lands. Apart from their part to seize the land, without building the road, designed by the law, has brought the matter to light, in the shape of remonstrance from the settlers, which was presented on their behalf to the Commissioner of the Interior, on the 6th ult., by Messrs. Britton & Gray. Sav. Rep.

The Missouri Insurance Law.

It is known, probably, to most of our readers, that an admirable system was introduced at the last session of the Missouri Legislature, which has for its object the further security of policy holders, by a special deposit of one hundred thousand dollars with the Insurance Commissioner of Missouri. By its strict operation the assured are always safe, and notwithstanding any mishaps which may occur to Life Insurance Companies, a sufficient amount is always retained by the insurance department to indemnify the assured. It is a most thorough and comprehensive law, and almost a counterpart of the insurance laws of New York and Massachusetts—those admirable systems under which the insurance interests of those States have moved so harmoniously. One or two companies have already complied with the new law, among which we notice the Atlas Mutual Life Insurance Company, of St. Louis Mo., as will be seen by the certificate of the Insurance Commissioner:

Certificate of Deposit of Securities for Policy Holders.

In conformity with section 24 of act of March 10, 1899, Certificate No. 4, issued July 1st, 1899.

Office of Sup't of Ins. Department, I, W. L. King, undersigned, do hereby certify that I am Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of Missouri, and that the Atlas Mutual Life Insurance Company—a life insurance company organized and existing under the laws of the State of Missouri, whose principal office is located at St. Louis, in said State of Missouri—has deposited in this office, for the security of its policy holders, in pursuance of section 21 of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Missouri, entitled "An act for the incorporation and regulation of life insurance companies," approved March 10th, 1899, the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars, in bonds or treasury notes of the United States, or in bonds secured by mortgages or deeds of trust unincumbered real estate in the State of Missouri, worth at least double the amount loaned thereon, with several kinds and descriptions particularly set forth in schedules signed by me, and which securities have not been received at a rate above their par value, nor above their current market value.

Said deposit was made in the office of the Superintendent, as aforesaid, on the 1st day of July, A. D. 1899, and has ever since, up to the date hereof, been held in pursuance of and subject to the provisions of said act of March 10th, A. D. 1899 for the security of the policy holders of said Company; and I do further certify that I am satisfied that the said securities are worth the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and fixed the seal of the office of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department, at St. Louis, in the city and county of St. Louis, State of Missouri, this 1st day of July, A. D. 1899.

The First District.

In the forty-fourth Congress, Grant's majority was 3-2. There was but little, if any, hope that Col. Mann could overcome that majority. The result, as far as is ascertained, goes to show that he has pulled down the Radical majority to such an extent as to leave hopes that at the next election that District may be wheeled into the Democratic column. Col. Mann has exhibited energy and high order of ability as a legislator, such as must commend him to the hearty favor of his party. In his own city, Mobile, he succeeded in increasing the Democratic majority, and in rendering certain that the commercial euphoria of Alabama will never be wrested from the Democrats. The position of that brilliant and capable legislator, Major Proctor, to the Legislature is a guarantee that the Gulf City will next year send one Democratic Senator and five Democratic Representatives to the State Legislature. Col. Mann may be defeated, but one more such defeat will be the ruin of the enemy in the first District. The result would have been decided. The result should satisfy every white man that the rescue of the State from Radical rule needs only a concentration of action.

The Second District.

In this District the majority of Grant over Seymour was 17-4. So far as we have heard at this present writing, Buckley's out of Montgomery, Lowndes, Bullock and Barbour counties with 6,908 majority. These are the only Radical counties, the vote of the negroes being overwhelming. To meet this majority, Dr. Worth receives from Pike and Butler a majority of 2,633. In the remaining counties of the District, Coffee, Dale, Henry and Crawford, the majority for Seymour was 3-2. This vote added to the votes of Pike and Butler, would give Dr. Worth only 5,676, with which to meet Buckley's majority of 6,908.

The Third District.

At the Presidential election this District went for the Democracy by 209 majority, according to official returns. The contest was not close, therefore, close and fought at the start. The Democracy showed under the disadvantage of being compelled to nominate a man who could take the test oath; who was acceptable to the men of Northern birth who had come into the District since the war, and who at the same time was acceptable to the native element, both Union and secession. Col. Parkinson was nominated as the Democratic man who could concede all of these elements. The result shows that his nomination was judicious. He had to contend against the efforts of an independent candidate, McLemore, against the silent opposition of Parsons, and the machinations in Talladega of White and Rice. In spite of it all he has carried the District by not less than 600 majority. His majority are as follows: Talladega, 2,000; Chambers, 216; Clay, 300; Randolph, 50; Coosa, 350; Total, 3,066. McKin's majority are, Macon, 1,152; Talladega, 785; Elmore, 312; Russell, 100. Total, 2,349. This estimate gives Parkinson a majority of 673. It is claimed by the Radicals that the Democratic majority in Talladega will fall as low as 1,500. If so, Parkinson has still a majority of nearly 200. The Radicals will do their utmost to count in their man and defeat Col. Parkinson of his seat, but they can do no doubt that he is fairly elected and entitled to his certificate from the Governor.

The Fourth District.

Unfortunately the Democracy had no nominated candidate in this District, and it is therefore impossible to tell the relative increase or decrease in the strength of the opposing parties.

The Fifth District.

This District is largely Democratic, and therefore the Democratic candidate, Judge Dox, has a large majority over his competitor, Judge Dox, a native of New York, who has been in the State for some years before the war, with some distinction. He has long been a citizen of North Alabama, and is married to a niece of our fellow-citizen, Judge Bibb, the patriarch of the old Whig party and the present Democratic party of this city. Judge Dox was a member of the Alabama Convention of 1865, and made most favorable impression upon the delegates. He is a man of fine physique, cultivated manners, logical and strong force of character. The interests of Alabama are safe in his hands. We believe that Judge Dox will take his stand in Congress as the Apex of the Southern Democrats and Conservatives.

The Sixth District.

This banner Democratic District elects W. C. Sherman, Esq., by an overwhelming majority. It is a white district. White districts elect Democrats, and negro districts elect Radicals. The lines are so plainly drawn that he who runs may read.

Tenth Election.

The Herald says most gratifying point of the election is that the contest passed off quietly and without the refractory emotions were closed during the day. It also says that it is very gratifying in view of the efforts made by a portion of Grant's army to secure the election of that traitor. It is the probability indicates that the Democratic majority of the year of the Congress just elected, the conservatives, thus securing the nation from the disgrace of another radical. Whether the Senate will elect Andrew Johnson or Bullie Peyton, or Emerson Etheridge, or some other person, whose name has not yet been named, seems to be a matter of little consequence. It is enough that the radicals have been beaten.

Independence of Cuba.

It is asserted very confidently in high quarters that the Administration has opened negotiations with the present government of Spain for the independence of Cuba. General Sikes has also presented the subject to the Minister of Foreign Affairs at Madrid, and two bulky telegrams have been received at Washington in consequence of the proposition General Sikes has laid before Serrano and his associates. That proposition is as follows:

First. Spain shall recognize the independence of Cuba under the government of Céspedes.

Second. Cuba shall pay to Spain an indemnity for the restoration of the rights hitherto exercised by the mother country, the amount of this indemnity to be specified in the treaty.

Third. The indemnity, whether fixed at 1 or 2 hundred and fifty million dollars, to be in hands of the Cuban government, payable with interest, at the expiration of a convenient period.

Fourth. These bonds to be guaranteed by the United States.

Fifth. That an armistice to be proclaimed between the patriots and the Spanish troops in Cuba immediately upon the execution of the treaty, the island to be evacuated by the Spanish forces as soon as the treaty is ratified by the representatives of the Cuban people and the guarantee of the bonds approved by the Congress of the United States.

Sixth. If these terms are not at once accepted by the Spanish Government, the United States will, without further delay, recognize the independence of Cuba.

MOBILE, August 6.—Last night a serious riot occurred in this city, beginning at an out door radical meeting to celebrate the triumph of the radical candidate for this Congressional District.

It is not known who fired the first shot. It was the natural result of the excitement. There were not over a hundred white men a lookers on at the meeting. The casualties were small, considering the number of shots and the close quarters. Many shots must have been fired in the air. Three negroes were killed outright, four police officers were wounded, five negroes and three white men were wounded.

The Mobile Register of this morning comments on the riot as follows: Last night's work done after our editorial of this morning was in print, is a sharp and quick commentary on the dangers we forecast from the present aspect of affairs. It is a burning shame that the community should be expected to outrage like this. And the community owes it to itself, to take measures to protect itself against a repetition of them.

As to where the blame lies there is no room for question. These deeds are the direct outflow of the maddened passions of negroes, inflamed and lashed into fury by the public language and private instigation of the foreign radicals in our midst. It is a question for the public to decide, how long these incendiaries shall be allowed to disturb the peace of society and the safety of women and children. We hope that public meetings will be held to answer these questions.

NOBLE WORDS.—The following is the closing paragraph of the Prize Oration at Emory and Henry, delivered by William Shorter, of Alabama: "When I have played my part and come to die, I want no marshalled host to follow me to my grave; no grand parade and show of earthly honors; no sound of music to play to the honor of the dead; but let a grateful people point to my tomb, and say, there is a spot that hallowed the memory of a true and honest man. This I would rather have than all the thrones of earthly kingdoms, the glory and pageantry of the world, and the highest honors mortals ever won."

Secretary of Treasury Boutwell calls the project for importing coffee, "a new modification of the slave trade." It promises to be as profitable as the African slave trade was. The Secretary will soon find some of his Massachusetts constituents engaged in it.

For Alabama Boys.

We find the following statement of what an Iowa boy accomplished in the Richmond Enquirer, and we commend it to some of our Alabama boys who have nothing to do.

The Enquirer says: "There is a boy of 15 years of age in Blackhawk county, Iowa, whose father died three years ago, leaving his widow and son an eighty acre farm burdened with a $1,000 mortgage. He has taken sole charge of the farm, paid off the mortgage, purchased a harrow, a sulky plough, a wagon and a set of harness, besides an $80 sewing machine. He has also secured a new cow. He is a member of the Cedar valley agricultural Society, and attends school three months each winter."—Selma Times.

GEORGE I. TURNLEY, Administrator.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, Calhoun County.

Court of Probate for said County, July 27th, A. C. 1869.

This day came Berry Turner Adm'r of the estate of Solomon Kilgo deceased and presents and files in court an account of his administration, and asks for settlement of his estate as executor of the estate of said deceased.

And therefore, It is ordered by the court, that the 23rd day of August 1869, be set for examining said account, and for settling said account, and making said settlement, and that the same be published for three successive weeks in the Jacksonville Republican, a news paper published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned to be and appear at a Special Term of said court, to be holden at the court house of said county on said 23rd day of August A. D. 1869, if they think proper.

A. WOODS, Judge of Probate.

July 31, 1869. 3d.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,

CALHOUN COUNTY.

Court of Probate for said county, July 31st 1869.

This day came S. D. McClellan and Jonathan Phillips, Administrators, de bonis non of the estate of Joseph Phillips deceased, and present to the court their petition in writing among other things, that said estate has owing to it, debts of a bad and doubtful character, and they allege that it would be beneficial to said estate to compromise with the parties owing the same, and they pray that an order of this court be made authorizing and empowering them as administrators as aforesaid to compromise said debts in a manner that will be most conducive to their interest of said estate, it is therefore ordered by the court that the 23rd day of August 1869 be set apart for the hearing of said petition, and that notice of them be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper published in said county for three successive weeks as a notice to all persons concerned to appear in court on said 23rd day of August 1869 and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition

Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, Irregularity, Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Debility, Impediment to Marriage, etc.; also, Gonorrhea, Erysipelas, and Piles, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every young and every man in the land, every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on the receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps. Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents. Address the publisher,

THE BAGGER.

A TRUE STORY AND NO FICTION.

One cold, windy morning, the last Sunday in December, 1847, a half naked man knocked timidly at the basement door of a fine, substantial mansion in the city of Brooklyn. Though the weather was bitter even for the season, the young man had no clothing but a pair of ragged cloth pants and the remains of a flannel shirt, in many large rents, and which exposed his muscular chest. But, in spite of his tattered apparel and evident fatigue, as he leaned heavily upon the railing of the basement stairs, a critical observer could not fail to notice a conscious air of dignity, and the marked traces of cultivation and refinement in his pale and haggard countenance.

The door was speedily opened, and disclosed a comfortably furnished room with its glowing grate of anthracite, before which was placed a luxuriously furnished breakfast table. A fashionably attired young man, in a broad dressing gown and velvet slippers, was reclining in a soft fauteuil busily reading the morning paper. The beautiful young wife had lingered at the table, giving to the servant in waiting her orders for the household matters of the day, when the timid rap at the door attracted her attention. She commanded it to be opened; but the young master of the mansion replied that it was quite useless—being no one but a thief and a beggar. But the door was already opened, and the sympathies of Mrs. Maywood were enlisted at once.

"Come in to the fire," cried the young wife, impulsively, "before you perish!" The mendicant, without exhibiting any surprise at such unusual treatment of a street beggar, slowly entered the room, and manifesting a painful weakness at every step. On his entrance, Mrs. Maywood, with a displaced air, gathered up his papers and left the apartment. The compassionate lady unobtrusively placed the half-frozen man near the fire, while she prepared a bowl of fragrant coffee, which, with abundant food, was placed before him. But noticing the abrupt departure of her husband, Mrs. Maywood with a clouded countenance left the room, whispering to the servant to remain until the stranger should leave.

She then ran hastily up to the richly furnished staircase and paused before the entrance of a small laboratory and analytical library, occupied solely by her husband, who was a physician and practical chemist. She opened the door and entered the room. Mrs. Maywood was sitting at a small table with his head resting on his hands, apparently in deep thought. "Edward," said the young wife, gently touching his arm, "I fear I have displeased you; but the man looked so wretched I could not bear to drive him away," and her sweet voice trembled as she added—"You know that I take the sacrament to-day."

"Dear Mary," replied the really fond husband, "I appreciate your motives. I know it is pure goodness of heart which leads you to disobey me, but still I must insist upon my former commands—that no beggar shall ever be permitted to enter the house. It is for your safety that I insist upon it. How deeply you might be imposed upon in my frequent absences from home. I shudder to think. The man who is below may be a burglar in disguise, and already in your absence taking impressions in wax of the different key-holes in the room, so as to enter some night at his leisure. Your limited experience of city life makes it difficult for you to credit so much depravity. It is no clarity to give to street beggars, it only encourages vice, dearest."

"It may be so," responded Mrs. Maywood, "but it seems wicked not to relieve suffering and want, even if the person has behaved badly, and we know it. But I promise you not to ask another beggar in to the house."

At this moment the servant rapped violently at the door, crying out that the beggar was dying.

"Come, Edward, your skill can save him, I know," said his wife, hastening from the room.

The doctor did not refuse this appeal to his professional vanity, for he immediately followed her flying footsteps as she descended to the basement. They found the mendicant lying pale and unconscious upon the carpet, where he had slipped in his weakness from the chair where Mrs. Maywood had seated him.

"He is a handsome fellow," muttered the doctor, as he bent over him to ascertain the state of his pulse.

And well might he say so. The glossy locks of raven hair had fallen away from a broad white forehead; his closed eyelids were bordered by long raven lashes, which lay like a silken fringe upon his pale bronzed cheeks, while a delicate aquiline nose, and a square massive chin, displayed a model of manly beauty.

"Is he dead?" asked the young wife anxiously.

"Oh, no; it is only a fainting fit induced by the sudden change of temperature, and, perhaps, the first stage of starvation," replied the doctor sympathizingly. He had forgotten for the moment, his cold maxims of prudence, and added, "he must be carried to a warm room without a fire, and placed in a comfortable bed."

The chamberman was called in to assist in lifting the athletic stranger, who was soon carried to a room in the chambers, where the doctor administered with his own hands port wine sipped. The young man soon became partly conscious, but a conversation was forbade him, and he sank quietly to sleep.

"He is doing well; let him rest as long as he can; should he awake in our absence, give him beef tea and toast, ad libitum," said the doctor professionally, as he left the room.

In less than an hour afterward, Dr. Maywood and his lovely wife entered the gorgeous church of the Most Holy Trinity.

Amid the hundreds of fair dames that entered its broad portals, dressed with all the taste and magnificence that abundant wealth could procure, not one rivaled in grace and beauty the orphan bride of the rich physician. Her tall, graceful figure, dressed in a velvet silk robe, was lightened by contrast her azure eyes, bright with the lustre of youthful happiness, yet there was a touch of tender pity in their drooping lids that won the confidence of every beholder. The snowy ermine mantilla, which protected her from the piercing wind, rivaled, but could not surpass, the delicate purity of her complexion.

Many admiring eyes followed the faultless figure of Mrs. Maywood, as she moved with unconscious grace up the central aisle of the church, but none with more heartfelt devotion than the young, wayward, but generous man, who had recently met her in spite of her poverty and the sneers of his aristocratic acquaintance.

The stately organ had pealed its last rich notes, which were still faintly echoing in the distant arches, when a stranger of venerable aspect, who had previously taken part in the services of the altar, rose and announced for his text the oft-quoted, but seldom applied words of the Apostle: "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers."

For thereby some have entertained angels unwares.

Dr. Maywood felt his forehead flash painfully; it appeared to him for the moment that the preacher must have known his want of charity toward strangers; and wished to give him a public lesson; but he soon saw from the tenor of his remarks, that his own guilty conscience had alone made the application in this particular case. I have not space, nor the power to give any synopsis of the sermon; but that it combined with the incident of the morning, effected a happy revolution in the mind of at least one of its hearers—so much so that on the return of Dr. Maywood from church he repaired at once to the room of the mendicant, to offer such attentions as he might stand in need of. But the young man seemed to be much refreshed by rest and nutritious food, and commenced gratefully thanking the host for the kind attentions he had received, which, without doubt had saved his life.

"I am not the beggar that I seem," said he, "I was shipwrecked on Friday night in the Ocean Wave, on my return from India. My name was doubtless among the list of the lost—for I escaped from the waves by a miracle. I attempted to make my way to New York, where I have ample funds to bank now awaiting my orders; but must have perished from cold and hunger had it not been for you and your wife's provident charity. I was repaid on every shore, and after escaping from the perils of the ocean, to die of hunger in the streets of a Christian city. I felt truly a bitter fate. My name is Arthur Willet."

"My dear sir," cried the young wife, "she will be pleased at her agency in your recovery."

"Of what State is she a native?" asked Arthur Willet eagerly.

"I married her in the town of B——, where she was born."

At this moment, Mrs. Maywood entered the room, surprised at the long absence of her husband.

Arthur Willet gazed at her with a look of wild surprise, murmuring:

"It cannot be; it cannot be. I am delicious to think so."

Mrs. Maywood gazed with little less astonishment.

"What painful mystery is this?" cried Dr. Maywood excitedly, addressing his wife, who then became conscious of the singularity of her conduct.

"Oh, no mystery," she replied, sighing deeply—"only this stranger is the very image of my long lost brother," Arthur. And Mrs. Maywood, overcome with emotion, turned to leave the room.

"Stay one moment," pleaded the stranger, drawing a small mourning ring from his finger, and holding it up, asked if she recognized that relic?

She shrieked aloud. Merciful heaven! It is my father's gray hair and you are—lost brother!

Mary Willet Maywood fell upon the mendicant's breast, shedding tears of sweetest joy and thanksgiving.

Dr. Maywood joined in cordial congratulation and sympathy, and retiring from the sacred hour of reunion, saying to himself—

"Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, for hereby some have entertained angels unwares."

Special dispatch to the Republican Banner.

COURTLAND, ALA., August 2, 8 P. M.

About two o'clock this afternoon, while Dr. Haughey, Conservative Republican candidate for Congress, was on the stand delivering a speech he said all the Hinds seceders were here. Hinds represented the extreme Radical wing of the Republican party, and is also a Congressional candidate. No sooner had the hiring expression escaped his lips than Dr. Collins, a friend of Hinds called him a d—liar, at the same time advancing toward him. Haughey returned the beligerent epithet, when both clenched. During the struggle, which lasted only about half a minute, Haughey was shot in the left breast, just under the ninth rib. The wound will prove fatal. Haughey and Hinds occupy the same position that Stokes and Senter do in the State of Tennessee. Hinds and Collins are both carpet-baggers. Collins is the man who killed Korieman some time ago. He is a perfect scoundrel.

The Radical negro majority of Antioch Colored Church, Culpeper county, Va.; expelled every member of the church who voted the Walker ticket in the late election. There have been many assaults by Radical negroes upon the Conservatives of their color, in various parts of the South, on account of their votes. But this instance of church proscription is more significant than other demonstration in showing that the ballot has been committed to a class utterly unfit to exercise it.—Col. Sun.

EXTRAORDINARY SPECTACLE IN TENNESSEE.—The most curious phenomenon of which we have ever heard, occurred in Chattanooga on Wednesday last.

The day it will be remembered was remarkably hot, so that most people in the county had to seek the shade about noon. At this hour, on the farm of Ed. Sharpe, 5 miles from Ashland, a sort of whirlwind came along over the neighboring woods, taking up small branches and leaves of trees, and burning them at the rate of about 5 miles an hour, and developing in size as it travelled.

It passed directly over the spot where a team of horses were feeding, and singed their manes and tails up to the roots; it then swept toward the house, taking a stack of hay in its course, which it set on fire. It seemed to increase in heat as it went, and by the time it reached the house, it immediately fired the shingles from end to end of the building, so that it then consumed the whole building, was wrapped in flames. The tall column of travelling colic then continued its course over a wheat field that had been recently cradled, setting fire to all the stacks that happened to be in its course—Passing from the field, its course lay over a stretch of woods which reached to the river. The green leaves on the trees were crisped to a cinder for a breadth of twenty yards, in a straight line to the Cumberland.

When the "pillar of fire" reached the water, it suddenly changed its course down the river, raising a column of steam which went up to the clouds for about half a mile, when it finally died out. Not less than two hundred people witnessed this strangest of strange phenomena, and all of them tell substantially the same story about it. The farmer, Sharpe, was left homeless by the devouring element, and his wife and two small children, that no goal is expected to be got out of them in the future. Several withered trees in the woods through which it passed were set on fire, and continue burning still.

A Wonderful Act of Cotton

We learned yesterday from a gentleman just up from Bufada, that the stalks, tools and squares in the bag were of cotton, belonging to Maj. L. F. Johnson, near Bufada, had been counted within the last day or two, and that by a close mathematical calculation, the acre will yield at least five and probably eight 450 pound bales of cotton. Old and experienced planters who were present and examined the cotton stalks, said that the acre would certainly yield five bales, and with favorable weather and close picking seven bales would probably be obtained. This is a most fabulous sounding statement; but we are assured that it is true. Macon Tel.

A Political Monster Dying in Infancy.

The Imperialist says the Memphis Avalanche begins to assume a steady appearance—that inevitable forerunner of decay. A few months ago it started with a grand flourish of trumpets. We were to have an Empire for the empire is peace. Soon unthinking journalists embraced its doctrine; why they knew not, and visions of regally danced before them.

A few who felt that the government was not what it should be, and did not pause to reflect that there is still a people who rule, and that in time the owner ship of State can be brought back for their ancient moorings, cried, "Long live the Empire." They thought men saw in the movement catch penny humbuggery and turned from the Imperialist in disgust. Already its glory is departed. For a time news stands were besieged by those who fancied themselves anxious to embrace an American monarchy.

Orders were increased, and the Empire seemed already at hand. But a second order brought demolished the imposing fabric. The foundation was found to be rotten, and the pillars which upheld the edifice were brittle as glass. A breath of reason—a gas-sinner of reflection—sent it to the ground. "And that was all."

Searches for the imperialist are now few, and come at rare intervals. Copies of the neatly printed thumb paper, ornamented by the inverted spoon, repose neglected on the newsboy's shelves. Clouds of dust settle upon their pages and bury them from view, even as the folly they advanced is being buried from view. Public interest has departed from the broad columns, whose wisley-wasby imitations for a brief period attracted those ever ready to follow any new flag flung to the breeze.

They contain nothing to fix the attention or instruct the mind. Vapid, tedious, flaccid and unoriginal, the leaders now excite only the casual glance puffin medical advances, and similar ephemeral ventures. Nobody wants the Empire, and the poor sickly Imperialist grows feeble apace. Already in its throat smolders the death rattle; and soon that which cannot create even a paper sceptre for a lasswood king will have passed away. "The Empire is peace." Poor Empire.

Jacksonville Female Academy.

To show the friends of education in this place and vicinity, and particularly the friends and patrons of the Female Academy, the estimation in which Prof. B. I. Harrison, the lately elected Principal, is held, where his superior qualifications and successful labors are well known and duly appreciated, we copy the following paragraph from the Selma Argus.

The Trustees have been indeed fortunate in securing the services of Prof. B. I. Harrison, with him at the head, and the efficient aid of such competent and accomplished ladies as Miss Fulewider and Miss Boyles, the Academy does not flourish beyond precedent, it will be from sheer neglect and indifference to the important interest of female education.

The next session commences on the first Monday in September, and we would advise all who design attending, to get ready to commence with the session, be properly classed and take an even start.

The Argus, says: "We congratulate the Trustees of Jacksonville Female Academy on their good fortune in securing the services of Prof. B. I. Harrison, of Sumnerfield, in this county, as principal of that old and popular school. We can ill afford to lose Capt. Harrison from Dallas; but he is pre-eminently qualified for the duties and responsibilities of the position he has taken, and we hope his administration will be as satisfactory to himself as we know it will be to his patrons."

The reader's attention is invited to the advertisement of the Board of Trustees in another column.

An error in the Selma Times led us into the same one last week, in stating that Gov. Smith had ordered the city of Mobile under military rule. He refused the application to him to do so.

The preliminary trial of Samuel Bostock, for the murder of J. T. Maloney, at Atlanta, terminated on the 18th inst. in his acquittal; the evidence showing beyond a reasonable doubt that he shot in self-defense, to preserve his own life, Maloney having first made it a clear case of justifiable homicide.

Hon. George H. Pendleton has accepted the nomination of the Democratic State Central Committee, as a candidate for Governor of Ohio.

John Quincy Adams, it is also stated, will accept the democratic nomination for Governor of Massachusetts.

Good Advice.—If you want a well made and perfectly neat fitting suit of clothes, or any part of a suit, call upon Hooper, Hough & Force, while in Rome, Ga. Their merchant tailoring establishment, cannot be beat in seven States. We know whereof we speak, have several articles of clothing made up by them, with which we could not be better pleased. Their Furnishing Goods are of the best, finest and most fashionable quality, and they will have them made up by the very best workmen, upon terms as cheap as they can be obtained even in New York.

We invite the especial attention of all purchasers and dealers in Millinery, Straw Goods, Silks, Velvets, &c. to the advertisement of Messrs. Armstrong, Cator & Co., importers and dealers in these articles, in Baltimore, Md. Their stock is about the largest, finest and most varied, and their prices as cheap or cheaper than any in the whole country. We advise merchants and dealers, in this section, when they go on for their Fall and Winter Stock, to take this house in their route, or send their orders. They will most certainly find it to their own interest and that of their patrons.

MUSIC LESSONS.—The Trustees of the Jacksonville Female Academy have secured the services of Mrs. MARTHA E. FRANCIS and Mrs. S. BURKE, as Teachers in the Music department of that institution. The first named lady has been long known as a competent, diligent and successful teacher of music on the Piano, and the latter is an accomplished and competent lady, who will add greatly to the advantages and facilities in that department of the Academy.

PRINTING BUSINESS.—We are prepared to offer liberal and advantageous terms to a young man of steady and industrious habits, between 16 and 19 years of age, who may wish to obtain some knowledge of the printing business, and is willing to engage for two years or more. Apply soon.

We notice in our exchange papers, accounts of rust in the cotton in Southwestern Georgia, and also of the worm there and in parts of South Alabama and Mississippi.

A farmer, who has made some experiments, recommends topping cotton the latter part of July or first of August as a means of destroying the cotton worm. He says that the fly which produces the worm always deposits its eggs in the top buds.

See the change in the date of sale of valuable Lands on Coosa River, by James A. Reeves, Register in Chancery. The sale is to take place on Monday the 18th day of October, 1899.

We were hauled last week, but forgot to mention it, a fine large, fully opened boll of cotton, pulled from the stalk on, 10th inst. in a field of Maj. B. C. Wyly, adjoining this place.

Calhoun county, Ala., Monday morning, Aug. 10, 1899.
J. F. GRANT, Esq.,
Dear Sir—

I have just been looking over your issue of Saturday last, 14th inst. and am much better pleased with its variety, selections &c. than any number I have had an opportunity of reading for some time past. The general appearance of your paper is excellent and exhibits good taste in its entire arrangement—far in advance of all the neighboring country journals—save perhaps the Radical sheet published at Talladega, which should not be mentioned. Although a resident of Calhoun for three or four years, I have never as yet had my name entered on your Subscription books—poverty, probably, being the main if not only reason.

I am a friend of good Newspapers—I like to look at them—like to take them in my hands—like to read them—they are instructive, useful, an absolute benefit to the reader and the community in which he lives. Every reading man should take one—should take his County paper, especially; for various reasons, and every intelligent man can name the entire catalogue of reasons—however lengthy—without comment or explanation. And who among us, is not intelligent? no man will be pleased to be thought otherwise, and the taking, reading and paying regularly and promptly for his paper is the best evidence he can produce in his favor. He should take it, if for no other reason than that he needs reading matter both for himself and family—boys and girls. His County paper is or should be the cheapest and best reading he can get. These are times when all men should read—must read if they would keep pace with the rapid strides of events—Political and general—more than ever in our country's history, the habit, the usefulness and the necessity of regular daily and weekly reading is becoming an absolute and imperative duty on every good citizen. He can not be a well informed and useful member in his neighborhood without it.

Now Mr. Editor, feeling the full power and weight of these brief, but indisputable statements, and desirous of relieving myself of the neglect and odium attaching to me of being a non-subscriber and regular reader of the Jacksonville Republican my County Newspaper; please enter my name for one year, with the expectation of renewing from year to year regularly at the expiration of each term, on your Subscription books. And now try and induce every conscientious man to come and do likewise. Then we shall soon have a paper that both Editor and subscriber may be proud to acknowledge. A. E. C.

THE COLORED MAN'S FRIEND.—John H. Mangum, a one-legged fellow, who has been about Greensboro for some five or six months, shoe-making, school-teaching, &c., was induced by some colored people to take to Mobile one four halves of cotton belonging to some of them, to sell. He carried down the cotton and returned, stating to them that the market was dull, and in consequence did not sell. But it was ascertained afterwards that he did sell the cotton, and that it netted him $567. This happened some two or three weeks ago, and Mangum has not been heard of since. The negroes are swindled out of their cotton. —Greensboro Beacon.

COL. PARKINSON.—This gallant representative of the Democracy of the 3d District, is at present in our city, where he has been received with enthusiasm by a host of friends. We are glad to learn that he is now instituting proceedings with a view of contesting the Congressional election in the 3d District, and he is confident of being able to show the perpetration of the grossest frauds upon the ballot box by the radical managers, and that he has actually been elected by at least 500 majority of legal voters. —Mont. Ad.

We know of nothing in the entire range of medicines that is so universally esteemed as Darby's prophylactic Fluid. No one who has ever tried it but always keeps a supply on hand. Hon. A. H. Stephens says, "No head of a family should ever be without it."

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,

Calhoun County.

Court of Probate for said County, August the 13th, A. D. 1899.

THIS day came Joel R. Love, Administrator of the Estate of John M. Love, deceased, and presents and files in Court his petition in writing, representing among other things, that his intestate died, leaving Land and Personal Property situate in said county; that said decedent also left a widow surviving him, that the S. E. 1/4 of Section 15, Township 14, Range 7, east in the Coosa Land District, was assigned to said widow as her dower in the Lands of said decedent; that said widow has lately departed this life, and no other heirs of said said land is the property of the Estate of said John M. Love, deceased, and he therefore asks an Order of Court authorizing him to sell said Land for distribution.—Petitioner further states that the following named persons are the non-resident heirs of said Estate: Eliza J. Harper, wife of James Harper, and Jesse D. Love of full age, who reside in the State of Arkansas, and Rufus K. Love, of full age, who resides in the State of California.

The premises being considered. It is Ordered by the Court that the 23rd day of September, 1899, be set for the hearing of said petition, and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper published in said county, for three successive weeks, as a notice to said non-resident heirs, and all other persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said Court, to be held at the Court House of said county, on said 23rd day of September, 1899, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

A. WOODS, Judge of Probate.

[From Appleton's Journal.]
OLIVE RAYMOND'S STORY.

When my sister Lily was between fifteen and sixteen, she grew pale and thin, and our father, whose pet and darling she had always been, insisted, in spite of Lily's alternate pouting and coaxing, on seeking medical advice for her. The advice proved not very disagreeable.

"There is nothing seriously amiss with your daughter, Mr. Raymond," said the kind physician to my anxious father; "she has outgrown her strength a little, and perhaps has been overtasked a little at school. Give her a holiday—here we are in the middle of February, the skies looking like December, and the streets all snow and ice—take her down to Georgia or Florida, where the birds and flowers are making it summer, whatever the calendar may say of the season. Let her run about all day in the open air, and you will bring her back in May, less of a Lily, and more of a rose, than she is now."

This was said in Lily's presence, and the pleased look she gave my father would have determined him to accept the doctor's plan, even had it been very difficult to accomplish. Difficult it was not to him, for though he had begun life as a poor blacksmith, he was now a rich iron-master, able to command both money and leisure. He had even won some political influence by inducing, through his employed to vote with him in closely contested elections, where the votes of a hundred men did much toward determining the question. That he had achieved all this by his honest industry was a subject of legitimate pride to my father; but he had another source of pride, less understood by the world around him, and less compatible, seemingly, with his life's history, yet felt no less deeply, and influencing him no less powerfully. This was pride of blood. Often have I heard him say, "Methinks much of blood in their horses and their cattle; it tells no less in man. I never forgot that, poor as my father was, he was an educated gentleman; and I often said to myself, when I was working for my daily bread, I am neither squire nor belted knight, as some of my forefathers were, but I will do my work with as brave a heart, and as true an arm, as the best of them could boast."

My mother had been a poor teacher of music. My father was already a thriving mechanic, with money in the bank, when she came as a boarder to the decent but cheap house which had been his home for two years. She was pretty, delicate, and overworked. He first pitied, and then loved her. She died young, leaving my Lily and myself of all her children.

My first Lily, her last, the others died in infancy. I have little to say of myself, except that I was eight years older than Lily, and that, from the time of my mother's death my father had taught me that she was my care, and so I was as ready as my father to do what the doctor advised for her. Thus it happened that, when she was nearly sixteen, and I was twenty-four, we made that visit to the South of which I am about to tell you, and which you will find to have been the fruitful source of both joy and sorrow.

It was all joy in the beginning. Never did poet's dream present a lovelier landscape in fairy-land than we found, awaiting us under those Southern skies. And yet there were no mountains and valleys, luxuriant the scene no rapid, rushing, extraneous, no tranquil lakes, sloping in pictured beauty under the noonday beam. What, then, was the charm, you may ask. It was the soft sky, the gentle breezes which just swayed the green woodland, and the flowers which sprang everywhere under our feet, and hung in clustered beauty from tree-top and spreading branch, till we seemed to walk under a canopy of soft, warm, velvet, rushing, extraneous, no tranquil lakes, sloping in pictured beauty under the noonday beam.

What, then, was the charm, you may ask. It was the soft sky, the gentle breezes which just swayed the green woodland, and the flowers which sprang everywhere under our feet, and hung in clustered beauty from tree-top and spreading branch, till we seemed to walk under a canopy of soft, warm, velvet, rushing, extraneous, no tranquil lakes, sloping in pictured beauty under the noonday beam.

Think of passing, in three or four days, from the snow of winter into the verdure of flowers, and the songs of birds, and the soft, perfumed air of summer! What could the fairies do for you more than this?

Our destination had been Savannah; but a letter from one of my father's political friends had procured for us an urgent invitation to make a visit to a family residing in the country.

Our hospitable entertainer, Mr. Forrester, resided on a plantation which had belonged to his family more than a hundred years, during which successive generations had added to the extent, convenience, and elegance of the home endowered by many tender and beloved memories. It was a rambling mansion, that always suggested the idea of having grown up to the requirements of its owners, rather than having been built in accordance with the design of an architect. But I must not pause upon the outer aspect of this lovely and happy home. Lovely as this was, its chief charm was within—in the cultivation of mind, the grace of manner, and the warm, generous, loving hearts of its inhabitants. How many happy memories of rambling through the woods in search of some rare specimen of Southern Florida for my herbarium; of boatings along the river-banks, when the sunlight flickered down on us through the dancing leaves of over-arching vines and oaks, or when, dropping low in the west, it made the woods seem all on fire with its glow; or, best of all, of chill evenings spent in Mr. Forrester's library, when the odor of the resins, pine-wood played over the wall filled book shelves, or flashed on the faces of the portraits that hung above the mantel shelf, starting the gaze of a momentary appearance of life and motion! There was a quietude, a seeming steadfastness, about this place and the life associated with it, which charmed me greatly, and which, perhaps, impressed me all the more from its contrast with the ceaseless activity and ever changing kaleidoscope of our New York life.

My father lacked the stately ease of Mr. Forrester, and the cultivation which a life of leisure had enabled him to obtain; but, possessing a shrewd, intelligent mind, he had gathered much of interesting incident and character from his stirring life, and so could contribute his quota to the entertainment of our little circle. Gentle, lovely Mr. Forrester, whatever might be the subject of conversation, gave it new interest by her quick intelligence, her playful wit, and womanly grace; and "the boys," as she called them though one was eighteen and the other twenty-three, threw somewhat of the hoped-for brightness and fearless confidence of their own untried natures over the graver and more cautious conclusions of their elder. For me, I observed and enjoyed, summing myself in this atmosphere of summer warmth and quiet I forgot that from such an atmosphere the storms are born. And Lily—she seemed to drink in new and fuller and healthier life at every pore. Her slender form acquired more womanly proportion, a richer coloring, glowing on her cheeks and lips, and in her brown eyes there lurked a tender shadow. The child's careless, confiding look was softened and beautified by maidenly consciousness.

We had originally intended returning home the last week in April; but, by some means, Mrs. Forrester had learned that the 25th of April would be Lily's birthday, and she urged us most affectionately to give them the pleasure of celebrating it with us. My father consented, in consequence, to stay till the first of May.

All who were within visiting distance of the Forresters—and that meant all within ten miles—were invited to the birthday fête. Our announcements were to be archaic and croquet parties, which began at four o'clock in the afternoon, and, in the evening, a dance. A collation was provided, of which the guests were to be invited to partake as they arrived; and the whole was to conclude with a magnificent supper. There were many consultations on the 27th, and I was scarcely surprised when, entering the library in the evening, in search of Philip Forrester, who was to help me fasten around the pictures some wreaths I had been making, I found his elder brother, Elliott, in close consultation with his father. There was something, however, in the looks of the young man, as well as the sudden silence on my entrance, which made me step back quickly.

"Pray, come back, Miss Raymond," cried Mr. Forrester, adding, with a smiling glance at his son as I returned, "Here is Elliott sadly in want of a confidante for a love-tale."

I thought that Elliott Forrester looked flushed and nervous; but, bowing slightly to me, he said quickly, "I will not offer an apology to Miss Raymond for leaving you at the door." Can you tell me where your father is, then, Raymond?

Before I could answer, Philip entered, hammer in hand. Elliott immediately disappeared, and Mr. Forrester began to speak of the wreaths I held, in a manner that prevented any recurrence to what had just passed. Yet I did not forget it, and I found myself glancing with curious interest at Elliott Forrester when we gathered around the tea-table. He caught the glance, and replied to it with a frank smile—frank, and yet with something in it that seemed to say, "I shall not tell you my secret yet. My father, too, seemed to be more than usually excited. Indeed, nobody appeared to me quite natural. I even fancied that Lily was a little more constrained, a little more shy, than usual. When we went to our rooms, she was silent and sleepy, and, when I awoke the next morning, she was gone. As she did not generally rise so early, or make her toilet so quickly, my vague feeling of something unusual being about to happen increased; and, stimulated by it, I, too, dressed rapidly, and descended to the lower story. All there was still and undisturbed, except by servants and dust-riders. I went to my room, and when I awoke the next morning, she was gone. ANOTHER AMENDMENT.—Some of the northern radicals are proposing a sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, whereby none will be allowed to vote, either white or black, except those who can read and write. This of course annuls the 15th amendment, which secures the right of suffrage to the negro, and we should say, would be going back upon him with a vengeance. This change of sentiment on the part of the advocates of the 16th amendment is no doubt caused in part by the fear, induced by the course pursued by many of the negroes in the Virginia, Tennessee and Mississippi elections, in voting for conservatives and democrats. They begin to think they have got about all the offices they will ever obtain by the negro's vote; and that in the future he will treat them as he has been treated in the promise of forty acres of land & a mule. They may also fear the effect of the threatened immense influx of Chinese, to whom the 16th amendment gives the right of suffrage in common with the negroes. At all events, the negro will find out in due time that the Radical party has little use for him aside from the offices his vote would confer.

A Liberal Proposition.

We now offer, to all new subscribers to the Jacksonville Republican, and also all our present subscribers who will renew and pay in advance, between this date and the first day of November, 1899, "The Western Home," a large and neat literary periodical, published at Chicago, Ill., free of extra charge. Those who accept this proposition will thus get both the Jacksonville Republican and Western Home, a first class literary monthly periodical, each No. containing 64 columns, printed on paper 28 by 42 inches, for $3 for one year. We will order the paper, and have it directed to the proper person and Post Office.

The attention of persons who may wish to purchase a valuable and desirable home in the up country, and also a half interest in a valuable mill, is directed to the advertisement of Dr. Ralls in another column.

THE PROSPECTS OF THE ELECTION OF HON. GEO. H. PENDLETON, democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, and Packer, democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, are stated to be very cheering indeed. It is believed that Pendleton's majority will reach 25,000 and that Packer's majority will also be large.

C. A. Alkley now offers for sale his valuable Steam Saw Mill, nine miles south of this place, on favorable terms. A good chance for a profitable investment. See advertisement in another column.

See notice of appointments by R. Tamer, Tax Collector, in another column. A little timely preparation in such cases often saves both time and money to taxpayers and officers.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL.—We learn by a private letter dated 14th inst., and also from persons passing, that a very interesting meeting has been going on for some two weeks at Cross Plains, in this County, conducted by Rev. Messrs. Mooly, Richardson and Slaughter. The estimated number of converts, up to the date mentioned was 50-47 joined the Methodist Church. The meeting had not closed when the letter was written.

There has also been an interesting meeting in progress in the Methodist Church in Jacksonville, for some days, conducted by Rev. F. T. J. Brandon, assisted a short time by Rev. W. J. Scott, of Georgia, and since by Rev. D. F. Smith, the Presbyterian minister of this place.

We also hear of heart-cheering revivals at several points in Talladega county, but have not sufficient statistical particulars to give numbers.

RABBIT TOWN ROAD.—We have the pleasure now of informing our correspondent "Plain," that our energetic Town Council, with the liberal assistance of the Commissioners Court, have let out the contract for finishing the Rabbit Town Road from the public square to the top of the mountain, making it a first class road of easy grade—the work to be done forthwith. The work heretofore done will not be lost. We may now with confidence ask our friends on the other side to meet us at the point agreed upon, with a road equally good; and invite all who wish to trade with our enterprising dry goods and grocery merchants, to come on, with the assurance that they will find good and full stocks at very low prices.

PRINTING BUSINESS.—We are prepared to offer liberal and advantageous terms to a young man of steady and industrious habits, between 16 and 19 years of age, who may wish to obtain some knowledge of the printing business, and is willing to engage for two years or more.—Apply soon.

We take the following from the Montgomery Advertiser, and would add that the Atlas is doing the leading business in this section. Its interests are looked after by our genial friend, Capt. J. M. Renfro, whose office may be found at No. 7, office row—call and see him when you come to town, and he will take pleasure in explaining the workings of his Company, and send up your application if you desire Insurance on your life.

ATLAS MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF ST. LOUIS.—We have heretofore called the attention of our readers to the Atlas card in our paper showing list of policy holders secured in so short a time, but would particularly call attention to the large number that has been added during the past month, which amounts to the handsome number of (149) one hundred and forty-nine applications. At this rate of increase the Atlas will, in a very short time, be doing the leading Life Insurance business in the Southern country, if not doing it at this time. One of the principal causes of the unparalleled success of the Atlas is, because its dealings with policy holders are equitable and just. It is the only Company which guarantees on each and every policy a definite cash value. After the payment of the first premium, declares its dividends annually on the contribution plan. All policies are non-forfeiting from the first annual payment, and not until two or three, as in other Companies.

It allows thirty days time on all annual payments. The policies issued by the Atlas combine the advantages of all the Companies without any of their objectionable features. One other cause of the great success of the Atlas is, that it is under the able and efficient management of our esteemed friend, Maj. Wilson B. Richardson, who is well known to our people as reliable and thoroughly posted in the Insurance business.

Notice to Clerks of Boards Township Trustees.

Jacksonville, Ala. July 31st 1899.
Are hereby notified to apply immediately at my office at Wynn's Hotel Jacksonville, and obtain Blanks to make out their annual reports as soon as practicable.

This duty is important to avoid errors—is imperatively demanded by law, and must not be delayed or neglected any longer.

J. B. WILLIAMS,
Sup't. Pub. Inst., Calhoun Co.

We have received of J. C. Jackson & Co., No. 1 Sixth street, Pittsburg, Pa., a sample of a new invention for holding a window up at any height desired, and locking it down. It is the simplest and cheapest thing we have seen for the purpose. They can be put on any window without cutting or fitting, and as not more than one-fifth of the windows have fasteners of any sort on them, we do not see why an energetic man could not make money putting them on in this vicinity. Agents are wanted. Samples will be sent by mail for 10 cents, by addressing as above.

N. D. CRISWELL is agent for this Calhoun county.

THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.—Hon. John Quincy Adams said the other day to a New York Sun interviewer: "I think," he replied, "that it will make but little difference whether it is adopted or not. It is inconsistent with the former portion of the Constitution, and is therefore, invalid. If declared adopted, when the Democratic party comes into power it will simply ignore it."

The Truth.

The Huntsville Democrat in replying to an article in the advocate which stated that the Radical party was "for law, order and peace," indignantly asks: "Does 'it' on one's rights," when it requires the people to support the radical papers against their will and their interests?"

"Does 'it' protect all," when it suffers white men to be assassinated (as in the case of Major Bagland) and its officers take no steps to discover the assassin and its official journals, are quiet as the dead, so far as remonstrances go, and when it elects for its Attorney General a man who murders a Democratic Editor in cold blood and when it shields him and his accomplice from the justice the law would mete out to them?"

"Does 'it' declare for equality under the law," when it does it not ignore equality in all its acts?"

"Does 'it' proscribe proscription," when it excludes from office the best and ablest men of the State, and puts in office fools, ignoramuses, incompetent, knaves, home-made and imported?"

"Does it proscribe outrages and anarchy?" Look at the recent negro riots in Mobile, and former riots, and numerous outrages there and elsewhere, under Radical auspices. The only reason why there is not anarchy everywhere, and why there is any respect for "law, order and peace" is to be found in the patience, forbearance and long suffering of the outraged and indignant people—the Democracy of Alabama.

A new set of mineral springs has been developed in DeKalb county, near Valley Head, since the building of the Wills Valley Railroad. Within an area of half an acre nine large springs break out. There are two kinds of sulphur, chalybeate, Freestone, Limestone, and other kinds. One of the Springs, for which our informant had no name, in every case acts instantly as an emetic, the most powerful. People from Chattanooga have come down this summer and built hanties around it.

It will no doubt become famous. The property belongs to Hon. M. J. Turnley of Jacksonville.—Gadsden Times.

Latest News.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Cubans have advised giving the following political news: The volunteers are exhibiting the purposes of their organization.—That of wresting the island from Spain. Every where throughout the island the volunteer juntas are in concert with the chief at Havana, and now Derodas is under the same control which expelled Dulce from the island.

It is reported that a formidable organization of Spaniards, in the interest of the Cospedles Government as against the volunteers, has been exposed by a spy. It is rumored that Derodas intends returning to Spain. Further continuance in his present position would detract from his reputation.

FROM CUBA.

HAVANA, Aug. 22.—Derodas reviewed the troops at Mantanzas. The troops expressed their willingness to go into active service.

Four hundred rebels are devastating the district of Colon.

A convoy with a regiment 800 strong, which left Puerto Padre for Los Tunos, encountered the rebels twice. They had a severe fight, but the result is unknown. Keyser says that the convoy reached Los Tunos. Col. Bengasia commanded the escort.

Derodas has returned from Mantanzas.

A. J. Simons, who has been in prison at Puerto Principe for the past six months has been released.

The Cubans here have dates to the 13th. Gen. Jordan had a running fight at Puerto Principe, which lasted nearly the whole day. The Cubans lost about one hundred and fifty killed and wounded. The Spanish loss is reported much greater. In this fight the Cubans were dislodged from their camp, but rallied, and finally drove the Spaniards off.

FROM CUBA.

HAVANA, Aug. 23.—One thousand insurgents have appeared in the vicinity of Colon district. But few troops are in the vicinity, and the Government is unable to control the volunteers, who are destroying all the property owned by Spaniards. Thirty prisoners from the interior have arrived at Havana.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—It is stated that Ballie Peyton advocates the election of Andrew Johnson to the United States Senate from Tennessee.

FROM JACKSON MISS.

JACKSON, Aug. 23.—Gen. Ames has issued the following order to Commanders of military posts in Mississippi: "The commanding General directs that you do not obey in future any writ of Habeas corpus issued by the U. S. District Courts or Circuit Courts, nor any order made by such courts for the release of prisoners in your custody. Should such writ or order be served upon you, report the fact by telegraph."

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The Tribune says: "The mournful intelligence comes to us from Tennessee that the chances of preventing the return of Mr. Andrew Johnson to the United States Senate are said to be diminishing."

FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—An insane son named Evans, killed his father aged 63 years. The scene of the murder was near that of Twitchell.

A fire broke out on the corner of Ninth and Wallace street, in building occupied by ten different factories. There is no water. The fire still continues.

Owing to the stoppage of the paper mills at Maunakee run, by failure of water, the price of paper has advanced two and a half to three cents per pound. These mills made fifteen tons of paper daily.

FROM LONDON.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Morning Telegraph, in discussing thecession of Cuba to the United States, says England would feel no jealousy at this aggrandizement, which would complete the abolition of slavery as an institution. The loss of Cuba to Spain would be an unquestionable gain to the mother country, to the colony and the cause of mankind.

OUR FAMILY PHYSICIAN.

Here is a book that really seems to meet every requirement of a thoroughly reliable family physician, and is sold at a low price ($2.50) that all can afford to buy it. It is a new and entirely new, and seems to us, invaluable feature: It gives the several modes of treatment as practiced by the different schools of physicians—the Allopathic, Homoeopathic, Hydropathic, Electric and Herbal—so that choice can be made of the method that may be the best suit one's taste or convenience, or a combination of two or three different modes may be resorted to if desirable. It is written in plain language that any one can understand.

To this have added at hand a reliable family physician, ready at all times to be consulted, and to give the best of advice, "free of charge," is certainly worth the small sum charged for this book. We are informed that over two thousand copies have been sold already in this city of Chicago, where the author resides, and that it is having an unprecedented sale everywhere. It is published in Cincinnati, by C. F. Vent, 38 West Fourth Street, in Chicago, by J. S. Goodman, 100 E. Madison Street, and is sold exclusively by subscription.

A HOME

In the up Country.

I offer for sale 300 acres of land—3000 clover—produces grain, cotton and clover. Also a half interest in one of the best MILLS in North Alabama. The land can be divided so as to make two or more good farms, and will suit purchasers for this or any other purpose. The property lies 12 miles from Gadsden, four from the Coosa River, and four from the S. E. & W. V. or Wills Valley Railroad, now in process of construction. A bargain will be given.

Court of Probate for said county, August 13th, A. D. 1899.

THIS day came Joel R. Love, Administrator of the Estate of John M. Love, deceased, and presents and files in Court his petition in writing, representing among other things, that his intestate died, leaving Land and Personal property situated in said county, that said deceased had left a widow surviving him, that the S. E. fourth of Section 15, Township 14, Range 7, east in the Coosa Land District, was assigned to said widow as her dower in the Lands of said deceased; that said widow has lately departed this life, and petitioner now alleges that said Land is the property of the Estate of said John M. Love, deceased, and he therefore asks an Order of Court authorizing him to sell said Land for distribution.—Petitioner further states, that the following named persons are the non-resident heirs of said Estate: Eliza J. Harper, wife of James Harper, and Jesse H. Love, full age, who reside in the State of Arkansas; and Rufus K. Love, full age, who resides in the State of California.

The premises being considered, It is Ordered by the Court that the 23rd day of September, 1899, be set for the hearing of said petition, and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper published in said county, for three successive weeks, as a notice to said non-resident heirs, and all other persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said Court, to be held at the Court House of said county, on said 23rd day of September, 1899, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Court of Probate for said county, July 27th, A. D. 1899.

This day came Berry Turner Adm'r of the estate of Solomon Kilgo deceased and presents and files in Court an account current between his intestate (as the late Executor of the estate of Thomas Johnson deceased), and the estate of the said Thomas Johnson deceased, for a final settlement of his intestate's executorship of the estate of said Johnson deceased.

And therefore, It is ordered by the court, that the 23rd day of August 1899, be set for examining, auditing, stating, and settling said account, and that the same be published for three successive weeks in a newspaper published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned to be and appear at a Special Term of said court, to be held at the court house of said county on said 23rd day of August A. D. 1899, if they think proper.

Court of Probate for said county, July 31st 1899.

This day came S. D. McClellan and Jonathan Phillips, Administrators of the estate of Joseph Phillips deceased, and present to the court their petition in writing among other things, that said estate has owing to it, debts of a bad and doubtful character, and they allege that it would be beneficial to said estate to compromise with the parties owing the same, and they pray that an order of this court be made authorizing and empowering them as administrators as aforesaid to compromise said debts in a manner that will be most conducive to their interest of said estate, it is therefore ordered by the court that the 23rd day of August 1899 be set apart for the hearing of said petition, and that notice of them be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper published in said county for three successive weeks as a notice to all persons concerned to appear in said court on said 23rd day of August 1899 and defend against said petition if they think proper.
